Memorial Day

A Day Devoted To Honoring Those Who Died Serving In The United States Military.

The origins of Memorial Day trace back to the years following the Civil War, a conflict that claimed more American lives than any war before or since. Communities across the country began holding springtime tributes, decorating the graves of fallen soldiers with flowers and flags. The tradition became widely known as “Decoration Day.”

In 1868, General John A. Logan of the Grand Army of the Republic called for a national day of remembrance to honor Civil War dead. Over time, the observance expanded to recognize Americans lost in all wars and military conflicts. In 1971, Memorial Day officially became a federal holiday observed on the last Monday in May.

Today, Memorial Day serves several purposes. It is a day for honoring sacrifice, supporting veterans and military families, and reflecting on the freedoms many Americans enjoy because others were willing to serve. Across the country, communities hold ceremonies, visit cemeteries, display flags, and pause for the National Moment of Remembrance at 3 p.m.

In small towns like Springdale, Memorial Day can feel especially personal. Many families have connections to military service through parents, grandparents, siblings, neighbors, and friends. The holiday offers an opportunity not only to remember those who died in uniform, but also to teach younger generations about service, sacrifice, and gratitude.

As the red rock cliffs of southern Utah welcome another summer season, Memorial Day reminds us that freedom has never come without cost — and that remembering those who gave their ”last full measure of devotion” is an important American tradition.

Recession

by Rudyard Kipling (first two stanzas)

God of our fathers, known of old,
Lord of our far-flung battle-line,
Beneath whose awful Hand we hold
Dominion over palm and pine—
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

The tumult and the shouting dies;
The Captains and the Kings depart:
Still stands Thine ancient sacrifice,
An humble and a contrite heart.
Lord God of Hosts, be with us yet,
Lest we forget—lest we forget!

Where in the World Is Tom Kenaston?

After years of dedicated service on the Springdale Planning Commission — including serving as chair — one of Springdale's own has found himself in an unexpected place: Nebraska, under quarantine after being aboard the now-infamous hantavirus cruise ship.

The good news is that reports continue to be positive. Out of an abundance of caution, health officials are taking the situation seriously, but the virus is not easily spread from person to person. Even though the CDC is choosing the time-consuming 'better safe than sorry path,' Springdale should be welcoming Tom home again soon. Our thoughts and prayers are with you, Tom.

Springdale Pickleball Program Builds Momentum — and Community

By Robyn Chancey

Springdale's pickleball community is thriving.

What began as a handful of clinics and organized play opportunities has quickly grown into a welcoming, energetic program bringing together residents, visitors, seasonal workers, and Zion National Park employees — all connected by a shared love of the game and community.

Since launching, Beginner Clinics have welcomed more than 60 participants, helping new players learn the rules, scoring, positioning, and fundamentals needed to feel confident stepping onto the court. Many players have returned for additional sessions as their skills — and enthusiasm — continue to grow.

The Springdale Pickleball Social (SPS) has become a favorite weekly tradition, averaging 20 players each week, with several sessions reaching 24–25 participants. Players of all ages and skill levels gather for organized play, friendly competition, and plenty of laughs. Many participants continue the evening together at local restaurants, where new friendships are forming and the sense of community continues to grow.

A heartfelt thank you goes to the local businesses that have welcomed SPS players, including Onyx Pizza, Scout Bar & Grill, Camp Outpost, and especially Zion Canyon Brewery, whose hospitality and player specials have helped make post-play gatherings something many participants look forward to each week.

The program has now expanded to include Skills & Drills sessions, giving players of all levels an opportunity to improve consistency, strategy, and shot-making in a fun, supportive setting. Look for this to be a regular weekly offering in the future.

As warmer weather arrives, the Springdale Pickleball Program has moved to summer hours:

- SPS: Mondays, 6:00–8:00 PM
- Beginner Clinics: Tuesdays, 6:00–8:00 PM
- Skills & Drills: Select Fridays, 6:00–8:00 PM

For questions about the program, contact Robyn Chancey at pickleballzion2@gmail.com or 803-215-9966.

Players are also encouraged to follow PickleballZion on Facebook for program updates, schedule announcements, and upcoming opportunities to play.

New players are always welcome!

I don't always play pickleball. Oh, wait, yes, I do.
If you wanted a soft serve, you should've gone to Dairy Queen.

Finding Your Balance

by Debi Keys

Why Stability Matters More Than Ever After 40

Have you ever noticed that balance becomes a little less automatic with age? Maybe you feel slightly unsteady getting out of bed, stepping off a curb, or reaching for something on a high shelf. You're not imagining it — balance naturally changes as we age. But here's the good news: balance can absolutely be improved.

And improving it may be one of the most important things you can do for long-term independence, confidence, and overall health.

Balance is not just about avoiding falls. Good balance helps with posture, coordination, reaction time, joint protection, mobility, and even brain health. It allows us to stay active, keep doing the things we love, and move through life with greater confidence.

The truth is, many people don't think about balance until they begin losing it.

The good news? Just a few minutes a day can make a remarkable difference.

Why Balance Changes with Age

Several things happen as we get older:

- Muscle strength naturally declines
- Core muscles weaken
- Vision changes
- Reaction time slows
- Joint stiffness increases
- Inner ear function may change

If we become more sedentary during mid-life and beyond, balance can decline even faster. That's why movement matters. The body adapts to what we ask it to do. When we practice balance regularly, we train the muscles, nervous system, and brain to work together more efficiently.

And contrary to popular belief, you do not need intense workouts or expensive equipment to improve stability. Simple, consistent exercises can help tremendously.

Three Great Exercises to Improve Balance

1. Single-Leg Stand

This simple exercise is one of the best ways to improve stability.

How to do it:

- Stand near a wall or sturdy chair for support
- Lift one foot slightly off the ground
- Hold for 10–30 seconds
- Switch sides
- Repeat 3 times per leg

Why it works:

This exercise strengthens the ankles, legs, hips, and core while training the body to stabilize itself.

Make it easier:

Keep one finger lightly touching a chair.

Make it harder:

Close your eyes or move your arms while balancing.

2. Heel-to-Toe Walk

This exercise improves coordination and walking stability.

How to do it:

- Walk in a straight line
- Place the heel of one foot directly in front of the toes of the other foot
- Continue slowly for 10–20 steps

Why it works:

It strengthens stabilizing muscles and improves body awareness and coordination.

Safety tip:

Use a hallway wall for support if needed.

3. Sit-to-Stand Exercise

One of the most functional balance exercises because it strengthens muscles used every day.

How to do it:

- Sit in a sturdy chair
- Cross your arms over your chest if possible
- Slowly stand up without using your hands
- Slowly sit back down
- Repeat 10 times

Why it works:

This movement strengthens the legs, hips, and core while improving stability during everyday activities.

Small Daily Habits That Help Balance

Improving balance isn't only about exercise. Daily habits matter too. Helpful habits include:

- Walking regularly
- Stretching stiff muscles
- Staying hydrated
- Wearing supportive shoes
- Improving posture
- Getting enough sleep
- Strength training a few times a week

Even activities like dancing, gardening, yoga, and tai chi can help improve coordination and stability.

Balance Is Confidence

One of the biggest benefits of better balance is confidence. When people feel more stable, they tend to move more freely, stay active longer, and enjoy life with less fear of falling or injury. And that confidence affects everything — from physical health to emotional well-being.

The important thing is to start where you are. You don't need perfection. You simply need consistency. A few minutes a day today can help protect your mobility, independence, and quality of life for years to come.

Because balance isn't just about standing steady. It's about living strong.

To your best health,

Debs~

Divisiveness Is a Choice - a Bad One

submitted anonymously

At times, some town leaders appear more focused on criticizing this paper and framing it as divisive or unreliable than engaging with the issues it raises. Why?

In small towns, people often say they want honesty, transparency, and accountability from local government. But sometimes, the moment those things appear in print, there is the accusation that they are "divisive."

That word gets used a lot these days and for good reason. We live in a time when social media algorithms, outrage, and misinformation often bury basic facts beneath emotion and noise. It has become harder to have meaningful discourse when people cannot even agree on objective information. But that confusion should not cause us to label honest journalism or public accountability as "divisive" simply because it challenges people or makes them uncomfortable.

A newspaper asks hard questions. Divisive.

A columnist points out contradictions. Divisive.

A resident publicly disagrees with leadership. Divisive.

A reporter shines light on decisions that some would rather avoid discussing. Somehow, also divisive.

But truth itself is not divisive.

Facts are not divisive.

Public records are not divisive.

Honest criticism is not divisive.

What's happening in many cases is much simpler: people in positions of authority do not like being questioned.

That is not the fault of the newspaper.

Local journalism has always played an important role in small communities. In towns like Springdale, where decisions by leadership can be magnified, independent reporting matters even more. Without it, residents are left with filtered narratives (like the town newsletter), selective information, and public meetings where difficult questions often go unanswered.

A healthy town should not fear scrutiny. Good leadership should welcome it.

If officials believe reporting is inaccurate, they can correct the record with facts in the same publication. If they disagree with an opinion piece, they are free to write their own. That is how open communities function.

But Town leadership encouraging residents to unsubscribe from a newspaper simply because it is critical sends a troubling message: support journalism only when it is flattering and supports their narrative.

That is not accountability. That is image management.

And perhaps most importantly, disagreement is not the same thing as division.

Communities are not damaged because people speak up. Communities are damaged when people become afraid to speak up. They are damaged when criticism is treated as disloyalty. They are damaged when transparency is viewed as a threat instead of public good.

No newspaper is perfect. No writer is perfect. But a community without independent voices is far more divided than a community willing to listen and debate.

If you think the Sun is divisive, then write an article explaining why. I'm sure it will get published. Help make it better rather than discrediting it.

The issue is not whether journalism is divisive but whether some people have become so uncomfortable with public accountability that they now label any criticism as "division."

A newspaper is not divisive simply because it tells the truth about decisions people would rather not, or maybe cannot, defend.

The Courage to Speak, The Wisdom to Listen and editorial by E Cutler

The preceding article brought many discussion-worthy thoughts to mind, most especially the idea that many people in Springdale hesitate to speak out. I have known this since long before I moved here; it was a common comment to my parents who moved here in the early 90's. I've been told the same thing by many people in the 4 years since we moved here, long before The Springdale Sun made its appearance almost a year ago.

It seemed sad; why not speak up in a small town where the chances of it making a difference are greater?

The answers varied. Some had been spoken to unkindly by other Springdalians who had a different opinion. Some felt attacked by leaders when expressing differing opinions. Some just prefer flying under the radar. Some are just not interested in local politics - they came to retire in peace from "all that jazz" for crying out loud.

The Springdale Sun is committed to improving this self-imposed lack of freedom of speech in our town.

This statement from the preceding article hit me powerfully: "Communities are not damaged because people speak up. Communities are damaged when people become afraid to speak up." Right now, we are a community where too many people are reluctant to voice their opinions.

People should feel free to express themselves. Those listening should respond with respect, regardless of whether they agree. Period.

TSS consistently asks for differing viewpoints, and that principle seems foundational to any healthy discussion. But quite frankly, it is difficult to see a valid alternative to this: people should feel free to speak up, and others should respond civilly and respectfully, even in disagreement.

When respect is the default response, more opinions will emerge, as will more engagement, more enlightenment, and better conclusions.

To those with a voice: use it — respectfully, honestly, humbly, and without apology. To those who listen, really listen, with the thought of learning something.

To those who disagree: speak up as well — respectfully, honestly, humbly, and without apology. To those who listen to that disagreement, really listen, with the thought of learning something.

We may find that compromise is needed less often than we think. When many ideas are shared openly and considered thoughtfully, something better can emerge: not merely concession, but synergy. Through respectful dialogue, stronger ideas are refined, improved, and ultimately implemented as we learn from and edify one another.

Construction Traffic Coming Soon to SR 9

At the Town Council Meeting On April 8, 2026, representatives form Zion Canyon Fiber Optics gave a presentation on the upcoming project to install fiber optics along SR 9,. "The Utah Department of Transportation (UDOT), in partnership with the National Parks Service, is undertaking a significant project to install middle-mile fiber optics to support last-mile connectivity to communities along State Route 9 and the Zion-Mount Carmel Highway. This initiative is part of UDOT's broader effort to expand and modernize the state's fiber optic infrastructure, enhancing connectivity and supporting Intelligent Transportation Systems (ITS) (including traffic cameras, road signs, and weather stations) throughout Utah." In the long term this is a good thing. In the short term, there will be times when driving along SR 9 will be expletive-inducing and, wouldn't you know, it's going to be during high tourism season. It's scheduled to start as early as Monday, June 1 and projected to be completed by the end of 2026.

As frustrating as this may seem and become, the presentation included the many steps taken and variables considered as they are sincerely trying to lessen the impact for locals. You may view the meeting here: <https://www.youtube.com/@SpringdaleTownPublicMeetings> time stamp 9:45 to 30:00 is when Nancy Cozzens and Ava Pecora presented their information. I think Town Council member, Tom Campbell, summarized it best when he said, "It seems you've covered as many bases as possible, even going above and beyond, and this is just the cost of doing business. We'll just have to grin and bear it."

Hopefully, this forewarning will allow us to forearm ourselves with patience and extra time when traveling SR 9 during the installation.

Some Takeaways from the Town Council Meeting

Town Council members work hard and have a lot of stamina. I couldn't manage to watch it all at one sitting, let alone sit there and stay engaged the entire time as they all did. Three hours and 33 minutes worth. Yikes.

Don't miss the Star Party, Friday, May 29 at the Town Park at 9:30 pm.

Zion National Park has lots and lots and lots of tourists and not nearly enough funding. Who knew? Well, pretty much everyone in Springdale.

Zion Forever Project is awesome. Things like this group just make me aware of, and grateful for, the good in people. They are hosting a concert at the OC Tanner Ampitheater July 4th, proceeds going to ZNP.

There was a presentation by Sean Amodt from the mosquito board. That information deserves its own piece on the following page.

The issue to potentially have village commercial property have tiered landscaping requirements (where smaller properties require smaller percentages of landscaping) like residential and central commercial zones do, passed 4 to 1. Kyla was concerned that it would be an excuse for some developers to overdo and make things grandiose. I agreed with Randy that it would probably allow them to put more modest structures on those small parcels because they might not have to go crazy with 2 (or 3, if one is a basement) stories to get a functional building. But her point was valid and evidenced concern for Springdale. Either way, it just made sense, regardless of how it is implemented, that requirements for village commercial zoning be consistent with the requirements for central commercial and residential zonings. (full disclosure, it was my son's application in regards to a property we own. I really don't think that affects my opinion because of its limited impact for us, but, had I been voting, I would've recused myself.)

A major takeaway, Randy, Pat, and Jack really need to work on speaking into the mike. When I said I agreed with Randy, I was kinda guessing that's what he said because it was so hard to hear. Kyla and Barbara are perfect when it comes to speaking into the mike. Show them how it's done, Women Council Members!

I think the outline on the previous page is sufficient for the other items. Agenda can be accessed here: < https://www.springdale.utah.gov/AgendaCenter/ViewFile/Agenda/_05132026-1050?html=true> with more information. To watch the whole dang thing, perhaps some night when you have insomnia:
<https://www.youtube.com/@SpringdaleTownPublicMeetings>

Planning Commission Meeting this Wednesday, 5 pm, at the CCC, to discuss the adding a Transient Lodging Overlay Zone at 974 Zion Park Blvd. Sounds like Meme's might be giving way to yet more overnight rentals, but also long term rentals. This is a complicated request and information for it can be found here: < https://www.springdale.utah.gov/AgendaCenter/ViewFile/Item/2070?fileID=12063> This item is public hearing, comments from the public will be entertained. I have often stated Springdale should halt nightly rentals altogether but I was impressed with this application and would probably vote for it. I'd be interested in other opinions.
The only other item is to potentially cancel the June 3 meeting. Town Staff needs time to hire and train.

Bitten in Springdale?

An invasive mosquito has moved into your neighborhood (Specifically St. George, Santa Clara, Washington, Hurricane, & Springdale). It appears it is here to stay, as its eggs can survive the mild winters to hatch at the first sign of water and warm weather. The Aedes aegypti, an urban dwelling container mosquito, loves to hang out in yards and neighborhoods - close to people.

Be proactive to prevent this mosquito in your Spring cleaning.
"Fight the Bite" Checklist:

Eliminate Standing Water Sources by:

- Removing Clutter
- Ensuring that all containers have holes to drain or are tipped
- Checking for sprinkler fed sources
- Turning over rain fed sources
- Checking boats and covers
- Adjusting watering amounts and fixing leaks
- Tightly covering rain barrels

Allow Site Inspections of: (Call to schedule)

- Ponds
- Ornamental Water Features – Especially non-functioning water features
- French drains

If you have experienced DAY BITING mosquitoes, please let us know how we can help. Contact the Southwest Mosquito Abatement & Control District office at 435-627-0076 or www.swmosquito.org

Mosquito control crews will be inspecting, trapping, and treating in the affected areas

Aedes Aegypti

- They are usually found in containers in residential areas and bite any time of day.
- They mainly bite humans, usually around areas with thin skin, like ankles and wrists
- They can carry diseases that aren't native to Utah, but they have not been known to carry any diseases in Washington County.

Characteristics & Behaviors

- The mosquito is black with white patches and banding.
- They stay relatively close to where they hatch out, but they can fly as far as a block away (in a lifetime).
- They lay eggs on the sides of containers, and they will hatch out when water is reintroduced, and emerge as adults in as little as 4-5 days.

My goodness, Harold!….
Now there goes one big mosquito!

Ebikes and HB 381

Utah's new e-mobility law (HB 381) officially took effect yesterday, and it includes several major changes for e-bikes, scooters, and other electric rideables.

Here are some of the biggest changes people should know about:

Age & Supervision Rules
• Children under 8 may not operate electric mobility devices on public roads, sidewalks, or paths.
• Riders under 16 may not operate a Class 3 e-bike (the faster pedal-assist models capable of up to 28 mph).
• Riders ages 8–14 currently must ride under the direct supervision of a parent or responsible adult. "Direct supervision" generally means the adult can see and communicate with the rider.
• Beginning in 2027, Utah plans to allow riders ages 8–15 to ride independently if they complete a state safety course and obtain a safety certificate.

Sur Rons & High-Powered Devices
Devices capable of traveling over 20 mph on motor power alone — including many Sur Ron-style bikes — are no longer treated as standard e-bikes under Utah law. Depending on the device, they may now be classified as e-motorcycles or other high-powered electric vehicles and may require licensing, motorcycle endorsements, registration, and insurance to operate legally on public roads.

DUI & Open Container Laws
Utah's DUI and open-container laws apply to electric bikes, scooters, and similar electric mobility devices — not just cars and motorcycles.

Helmet Requirements
Riders under 21 must wear helmets:
• CPSC-standard helmets for e-bikes and e-scooters
• DOT-approved helmets for e-motorcycles and higher-powered devices

Illegal Modifications
Modifying an e-bike to bypass factory speed or power limits is now illegal under Utah law and can result in fines and possible impoundment.

The goal of HB 381 is largely centered on safety, especially as injuries involving high-powered electric devices have increased across Utah.

Sources from the Utah Highway Safety Office and Utah Driver License Division provide the clearest public summaries of the law.

WHEN IT COME TO FIRES, THOU SHALT BE SMART

As mentioned in last week's issue, Hurricane Valley Fire District has an informative website with important information: <https://www.hvfssd.org/>

Here's some of what you can learn there:

- "Hurricane Valley Fire District does NOT issue, enforce, or monitor burn permits.
- You must obtain a permit before any burning.
- You may never burn household garbage.
- Calling Hurricane Valley Fire District, or leaving a voicemail, does not authorize you to conduct a burn.

Harold W. Poole Bataan Death March and POW survivor:
Presented by Stan Poole
May 22nd, Friday, 7pm at Bumbleberry Theater

Harold Poole (1918 – 2010) was a Bataan Death March survivor and 3 ½ year POW survivor during World War II. Surviving the horrors and unimaginable difficulty of these events involved miracles, an incredible spirit and will to live. Harold is my dad. I grew up listening to his stories and sat at the feet of many of his survivor friends. Included is a brief description of the Bataan Death March, many of the POW experiences, the power of forgiveness and the incredible miracles of faith. Actual video footage of Harold and some of his survivor buddies telling their experiences in their own words brings these incredible stories to life.

Improv Group: Scriptless in Seattle

May 23rd, Saturday, 7pm at Bumbleberry Theater

In early-2019 a group of three comedy performers were on deck for a small talent show fundraiser in Cuyahoga Falls, Ohio. Just a few minutes before taking the stage, the emcees approached them asking what they wanted to be called. After discussing briefly and tossing around a few joke suggestions, the three settled on a movie pun, tipping their hat to Meg Ryan and Tom Hanks. Not five minutes later, the emcees introduced for the first time anywhere, Scriptless in Seattle.

Today, years later, Scriptless in Seattle is touring the world… and still flying by the seats of their pants! Come enjoy a show that has not yet been written and even get the chance to steer its direction! With opportunities to come up on stage and be a part of the show, the script is YOU.

J.M. Mitchell

Meet the Author - Wednesday, May 27, 2026

Canyon Community Center, 126 Lion Blvd, Springdale, UT

7:00 PM - FREE

J. M. Mitchell, Jerry, had a long career with the National Park Service, retiring as chief of the agency's Biological Resource Management Division, after having worked in Yosemite, Grand Canyon and Zion National Parks, Washington D.C. and Regional Office. He's now writing national park mysteries following the adventures of Park Ranger Jack Chastain in a park much like Zion, including Public Trust (2012), The Height of Secrecy (2014), Killing Godiva's Horse (2018), and The Migrations of Butterflies and Lies (2023).

Jerry says, "I try to write my stories in such a way as to give the reader a chance to slip into the shoes of a ranger. But reader beware ... the job is not without risk, and it's not the bears you should fear. The job requires competence, and it's not without conflict."

He will be discussing his books, the current state of the park service, and his writing.

Hey, Locals, did you know there's a free outdoor exercise class every Monday at 10 am by the gazebo? [I you're looking at the library, the gazebo is to the left., but then again, if you're a local, you probably know that.] The time will shift to 9 am and may have already. Someone let me know, please. Bring hand-held weights, yoga mat, bands, water, and yourself — and maybe a friend. Enjoy a warm up, cardio, and stretching, thanks to Janel Bassett.

Check out the new sketching group in Springdale.
Meeting in the small reading room at the CCC. Join them on the first field trip, check out the transit system to the mall or just meet group there. Open to all levels.
Started March 5.
